

I Know What You'll Be Doing Next Summer! International Doorways Offers Unique 27-Day Summer Program for High School Students in Bali July 9 – August 27, 2007.

(2/4/2007) International Doorways - a U.S.-based company offering educational Summers abroad to High School Students is featuring Bali as one of its destinations in 2007. For 27-days, from July 9 – August 27, 2007, a group of lucky high school students will immerse themselves in Indonesian culture in a program combining language study, community service projects, short internships and outdoor adventure.

All programs are carried out under the careful supervision of trained and experienced escorts and educators with substantial background and experience in Balinese culture.

With an emphasis on intensive contact with Balinese society, students will participate in community assistance programs interwoven with a busy program of Balinese language, music, dance, cooking, ceramic pot-making lessons, working in rice fields, trekking in the national park, sailing, surfing, snorkeling and white-water rafting. Along the way the students will visit Kintamani volcano, Tanah Lot, Lombok island, attend local ceremonies and performances and engage in a whole range of supervised sporting activities.

Cost of the program is US$4,100 with accommodation provided in small family hotels and bungalows.

More information: International Doorways Bali Program for 2007